FINDING TOP TALENT

Now more than ever, hospitals and health systems are relying heavily on technology to continue to drive innovation. The structure of hospital IT departments includes various segments; clinical applications for managing software for onsite departments, ambulatory clinical applications to support outpatient clinics, business applications for non-clinical IT initiatives, help desk support, networking, security and infrastructure and more. Together, these teams are responsible for using IT and technology to enable physicians and clinicians to provide top care for patients in their organization.

DRI Hospital IT assists hospitals and health systems in building top teams by providing custom human capital solutions for organizations in the United States. We use a quality-focused approach to deliver service and we are networked to the highest-caliber of IT professionals in the market.
